

Morning Dragon

Background & Origin: Morning Dragon was the guy in Marine Corp basic training who was always smiling no matter what the drill sergeant said, did or ordered him to do (he subscribes to the philosophy "smile, it makes other people wonder what your up to"). He is very much a morning person (he can't sleep past 5 AM) and likes to antagonize adversaries in very subtle ways. In combat, his first action will almost always be to evade just because it annoys his opponents. He never takes anything personally, and never worries about his personal safety (being virtually immune to harm). He has been training intensively in Wu Shu kung fu since he was eight years old.

He gained his powers during Marine training. They had a special program designed to push the limits of how long a person could hold his breath underwater before passing out. No one died during the program, but the third time through, Dragon decided he was going to last longer than anyone else. When he finally stopped breathing, it wasn't because he passed out, instead it was because his latent powers had activated and he no longer needed to breath.

Combat Tactics: Tries to live by the philosophy that if he has to kick someone's butt, then he has already failed at diplomacy.

Personality Traits: A genuinely friendly guy. He has developed poor impulse control because he no longer worries about being injured (ever).

He is from Southern California and a racial mix of French, Korean and Hispanic.

He has short black hair and dark brown eyes. He is 5'9" tall and weighs 140 lbs.

Designer's Notes: Morning Dragon originally appeared in They Might Be Characters Volume 1 which was posted on patric.net in 1999. It had the V&V version, so this is an update to his background and creates the LL conversion. I made a conscious choice to convert him as written and avoid a "ten years later" update.
